Carrie M. Jennings Awarded $8,000 Counseling Fellowship From NBCC and Affiliates

Suffolk, VA—The NBCC Foundation, an affiliate of the National Board for Certified Counselors (NBCC), recently selected Carrie M. Jennings of Suffolk, Virginia, for the NBCC Minority Fellowship Program-Youth (MFP-Y). As an NBCC MFP-Y fellow, Jennings will receive funding and training to support her education and facilitate her service to underserved minority populations, with a specific focus on transition-age youth (ages 16–25).

The NBCC MFP-Y is made possible by a grant awarded to NBCC by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) in September 2014. The Foundation is contracted by NBCC to administer the NBCC MFP-Y, as well as training and collaboration activities, such as webinars, that are open to all National Certified Counselors (NCCs). The goal of the program is to reduce health disparities and improve behavioral health care outcomes for racially and ethnically diverse populations by increasing the number of available culturally competent behavioral health professionals.

The NBCC MFP will distribute $8,000 education awards to Jennings and the 30 other master's-level counseling students selected to receive the fellowship award. Jennings is a graduate of Norfolk State University, in Virginia, and of Cambridge College, in Boston, Massachusetts, and is currently pursuing a master's degree in the clinical mental health counseling program at South University, in Glen Allen, Virginia. Upon graduation, Jennings intends to continue working with minority populations between the ages of 16–25 and to start a business to benefit underserved populations. Earning this fellowship will allow Jennings to connect with like-minded people, gain the skills and training necessary to be successful, and continue her professional growth. Earning this fellowship will also aid Jennings with the expenses incurred for her classes and from her commute to campus.

The Foundation plans to open the next NBCC MFP-Y application period in September 2016. To learn more about the NBCC MFP and its fellows, please visit www.nbccf.org.

About the NBCC Foundation
