Courtney LeAnn McDonald Awarded $8,000 Counseling Fellowship From NBCC and Affiliates

Morgantown, WV—The NBCC Foundation, an affiliate of the National Board for Certified Counselors (NBCC), recently selected Courtney LeAnn McDonald of Morgantown, West Virginia, for the NBCC Minority Fellowship Program-Youth (MFP-Y). As an NBCC MFP-Y Fellow, McDonald will receive funding and training to support her education and facilitate her service to underserved minority populations, with a specific focus on transition-age youth (ages 16–25).

The NBCC MFP-Y is made possible by a grant awarded to NBCC by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) in September 2014. The Foundation is contracted by NBCC to administer the NBCC MFP-Y, as well as training and collaboration activities, such as webinars, that are open to all National Certified Counselors (NCCs). The goal of the program is to reduce health disparities and improve behavioral health care outcomes for racially and ethnically diverse populations by increasing the number of available culturally competent behavioral health professionals.

The NBCC MFP will distribute $8,000 education awards to McDonald and the 29 other master's-level counseling students selected to receive the fellowship award. McDonald is a graduate of West Virginia University, in Morgantown, and is currently pursuing a master's in the clinical mental health counseling program at Waynesburg University, in Pennsylvania. Upon earning a master's degree, McDonald plans to work with young adults, particularly in an outpatient setting. More specifically, she hopes to work with sexual assault victims, college students, and mandated individuals who have experienced some sort of legal trouble because of substance abuse. She is passionate about these populations and is excited to make a difference in her future clients' lives. Professionally, her ultimate goal is to operate her own private practice and eventually earn a doctorate. Being selected as a fellowship recipient will allow McDonald the opportunity to network with others who are just as devoted as her to mental health, obtain valuable experience through symposiums and workshops, and learn new ways to serve disadvantaged youth.

The NBCC Foundation has also awarded 23 $20,000 doctoral fellowships through the Minority Fellowship Program and 34 master's-level fellowships of up to $11,000 through the MFP-Addictions Counselors (MFP-AC). The Foundation plans to open the next NBCC MFP-Y application period in fall 2018. To learn more about the NBCC MFP and its fellows, please visit <http://www.nbccf.org/Programs/Fellows>.
