Patricia Jones Joplin Awarded $11,000 Counseling Fellowship From NBCC and Affiliates

Charlotte, NC—The NBCC Foundation, an affiliate of the National Board for Certified Counselors (NBCC), recently selected Patricia Jones Joplin, of Charlotte, North Carolina, for the NBCC Minority Fellowship Program-Addictions Counselors (MFP-AC). As an NBCC MFP-AC fellow, Joplin will receive funding and training to support her education and facilitate her addictions counseling service to underserved minority transition-age youth (ages 16–25).

The NBCC MFP-AC is made possible by a grant awarded to NBCC by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) in September 2014. The Foundation is contracted by NBCC to administer the NBCC MFP-AC, as well as training and collaboration activities, such as webinars, that are open to all National Certified Counselors (NCCs). The goal of the program is to reduce health disparities and improve behavioral health care outcomes for racially and ethnically diverse populations by increasing the available number of culturally competent behavioral health professionals.

The NBCC MFP will distribute up to $11,000 to Joplin and the 29 other master's-level addictions counseling students selected to receive the fellowship award. Joplin is a graduate of Gardner Webb University, in Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and is currently a master's student in the addictions counseling program at The University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Upon graduation, Joplin intends to work with transition-age minority youth, people experiencing homelessness, those in mental health crises, and individuals involved in the criminal justice system as a result of addiction. Earning this fellowship will allow Joplin to obtain the education necessary to help treat substance abuse, build a support network with other professionals, establish a stronger professional identity as a counselor, and learn evidence-based practices to better assist underserved populations and advocate for the counseling profession.

The Foundation plans to open the next NBCC MFP-AC application period in September 2016. To learn more about the NBCC MFP and its fellows, please visit www.nbccf.org.
